Dear Wendy:

It's not quite as white and black as there are givers in this world and there are takers, but you stand very close to the front of the line of givers.

My sister and son and I were so impressed with your sensitivity... knowledge... and efficiency.

Mostly, however, we were astonished with your absolute honesty and generosity of spirit.

You advised us NOT to use your service. It would not, you explained, be in our best interests. Rather, you instructed us on a better route. You gave, yes GAVE away, values on our furnishings and belongings.

Someone once said, "The purpose of Life is to discover the gifts within you. The meaning of Life is to give those gifts away."

You've found your purpose. And meaning.

And we are very grateful.

Wishing you all the best,

Mark Waxman
